

The Community Empowerment Program

Our mission is to empower humanity to end the climate crisis through the empowerment of individuals and communities. The Community Empowerment Program is the workshop for training and empowering community leaders.

Empowerment has 3 elements:

Awareness (as a function of information and exploration)

Ownership (as a function of responsibility)

Impact (as a function of action)

Awareness is a 2-pronged phenomenon

The situation itself

The context in which the situation resides

Awareness on the contextual plane is achieved through the exploration of and freedom from the myths that comprise the current context. In this awakening, the responsibility aspect of empowerment becomes available; as one is free to create her/his stand in the matter as a stand-alone phenomenon and not in response to or compensation for anything, one experiences a new-found power to meet and resolve challenges that were previously impossible.

The actions then taken are an expression of that stand, the realization of that stand and all that stand makes possible. Making the end of the climate crisis a matter of consciousness and conscious action. An act of Self-expression, contextual activism.

Each leader selects a community to bring to it the opportunity of 2030 or Bust, creates a strategy for that infiltration and develops action plans to successfully execute that strategy.

The intent of the Program is to awaken a critical mass of humanity to its power to end the climate crisis as a function of the awakening of humanity to its own constraints.

Program Intentions:

To cause a break-open in the empowerment of people to end the climate crisis. To crack the culture.
